Are We Screwed? How a New Generation is Fighting to Survive Climate Change

By Geoff Dembicki

“In this spirited manifesto against the status quo, journalist Dembicki highlights the stories of Millennials who are combating climate change. . .Dembicki deftly analyzes and critiques many organizations that claim to be effecting change. . . and effectively demonstrates that Millennials do care about the future, so much so, that they are willing to fight for it. VERDICT Young and old activists alike will be inspired by this hopeful call for change.” – Starred Review, Library Journal

“[Dembicki] offers a deft contemporary view of how the future will be impacted by millennials . . . As Dembicki aptly alludes, the collective voice does make a difference, and the social media savvy of the millennials is unparalleled . . . If you don't want your future to be in the hands of old white men, do read this evocative collection of stories about young people who are making a difference in environmental and political stewardship.” – New York Journal of Books
